Your trusted eDiscovery partner

Corporate counsel and law firm clients choose Daegis to mitigate risk and dramatically reduce time and costs across the entire eDiscovery process—from information management through collection, search, review, and production.

The Daegis eDiscovery Platform combines technology and services to create the industry's most complete solution. From information management through collection, processing, search, review, and production, clients receive consultative support and superior project management.

The powerful combination of our modular technology platform and our deep eDiscovery expertise—drawn from more than a decade of industry experience—ensures the proper selection and efficient review of documents, while our passionate perspective on client service enables us to deliver the industry's best customer experience.

Bringing a unique approach to eDiscovery

Traditionally, organizations have viewed electronic discovery as a series of independent tasks. Daegis takes a different approach, having evolved its technology, services, and processes to deliver an integrated eDiscovery solution that creates valuable opportunities to increase efficiency and lower costs.

The right solution for corporations and law firms

Corporate legal departments are under constant pressure to reduce costs and mitigate risks. New discovery requests arise each day, with difficult challenges around preserving and collecting ever-expanding volumes of electronically stored information. Litigation support teams are increasingly being called upon to cost-effectively search, analyze, and cull complex data sets within very narrow timeframes.

Law firms are being asked by clients to take a lead role in all eDiscovery requirements and to do so in a way that is efficient and defensible while still operating within budget.

The solution? The Daegis eDiscovery Platform enables clients to turn to a single source for all their eDiscovery needs including technology and on-demand access to our experienced consulting and client services teams.

For corporate legal and IT departments, that means:

- Lower review costs with improved responsiveness rates
- Faster eDiscovery within a single solution platform
- Defensible results from end-to-end matter management
- A single application that eliminates costly and risky data handoffs
- The ability to collect data across multiple, disparate systems and locations

And for law firms seeking to expand their eDiscovery service offerings to their client base, it means:

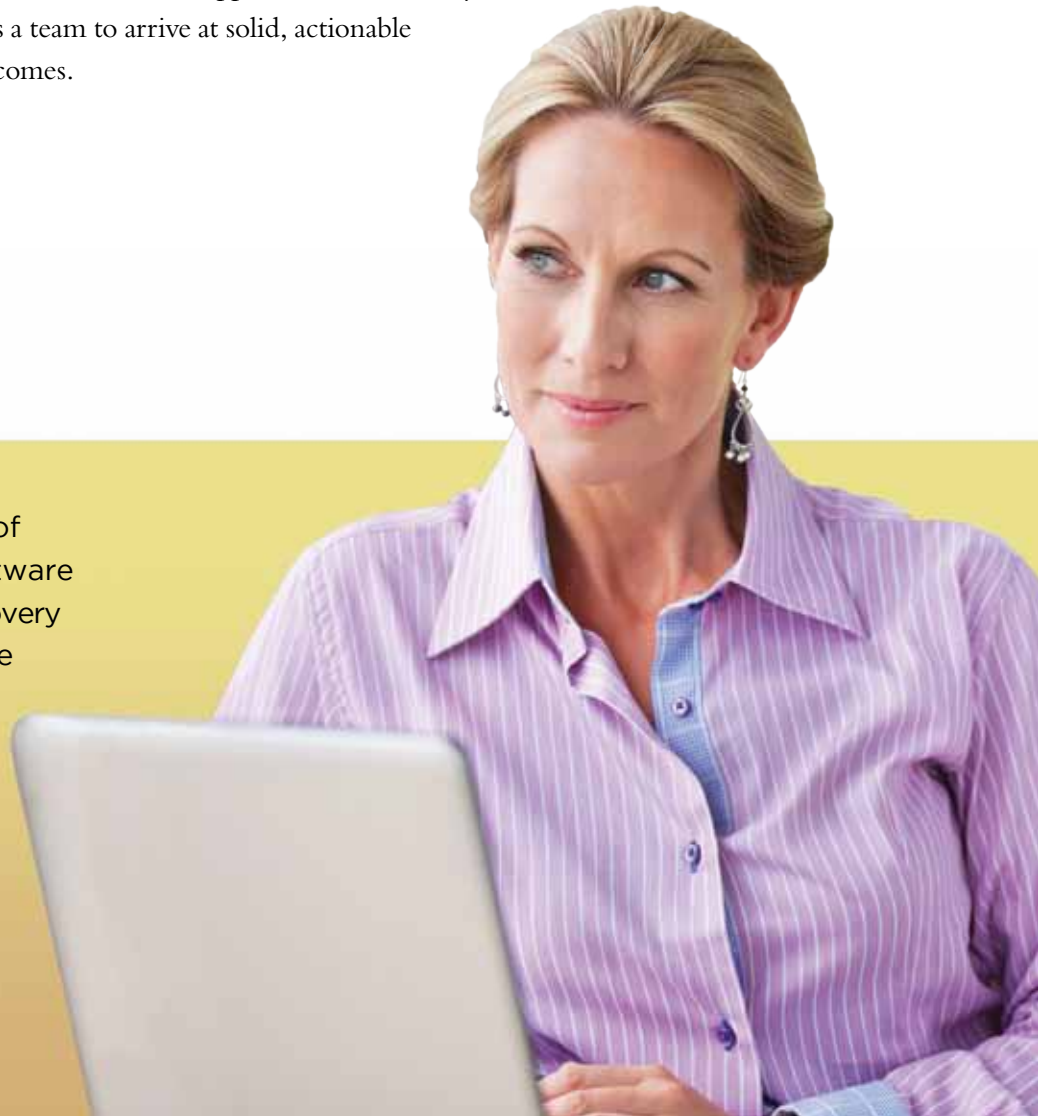

- Faster turnaround for more predictable and competitive cost estimates
- eDiscovery is completed in an efficient, defensible, and documented manner
- Empowerment to litigation support staff tasked with responding to and managing eDiscovery requests

We've been in the business of eDiscovery as long as eDiscovery has existed

- 1999: The year Daegis was founded
- Hundreds: The number of clients (of all types and sizes) with whom we've worked
- Millions: The amount of money we've saved our clients through our combination of flexible technology, expert services, and consultative support
- Billions: The number of documents our technology has processed, hosted, and produced

Daegis has handled thousands of cases with its highly experienced and resourceful consultants and project managers who take the initiative to save clients time and money. Together, our experts deliver a seamless approach to eDiscovery that ensures that everyone works as a team to arrive at solid, actionable paths that lead to very positive outcomes.

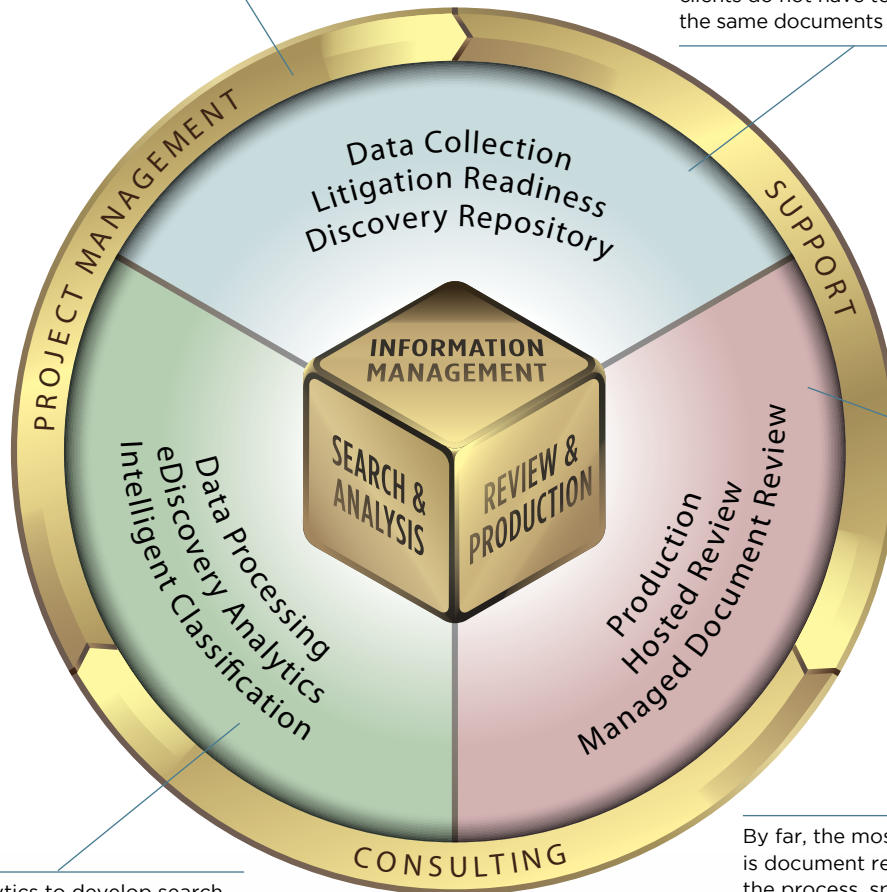

The powerful combination of our integrated modular software platform and our deep eDiscovery expertise—drawn from more than a decade of industry experience—ensures the proper and cost-effective selection and review of documents.

The Daegis eDiscovery Platform: Increase efficiency and lower your discovery costs from information management through search and analysis to document review and production

All of our clients enjoy the consultative support of Daegis' outstanding project management team.

The designations, redactions, and notes that are created by attorney reviewers represent critical intelligence that has value beyond a current matter. Daegis preserves this work product in the discovery repository so that clients do not have to waste time and money reviewing the same documents across multiple matters.

Use eDiscovery analytics to develop search criteria that will lead to a highly targeted review set. By applying advanced search strategies and expertise early in the project, Daegis can help you dramatically reduce the volume of data to be reviewed.

By far, the most costly component of eDiscovery is document review. By using metrics to guide the process, speed and efficiency improve as the project progresses. Daegis' managed document review is delivered quickly, efficiently and with a high degree of budgetary certainty.

The Daegis eDiscovery Platform: Technology and services that include project management and consultative expertise.

The Daegis® eDiscovery Platform provides a comprehensive solution that is also customizable to meet your specific eDiscovery needs. Clients benefit from a single integrated system, which means that data is ingested and indexed only once, saving time and money while reducing the margin of error associated with data handoffs.

The services component of the Daegis eDiscovery Platform ensures that clients get the results they expect. Rather than just “handing over the keys” to the technology, Daegis acts as a co-pilot throughout the entire process, leveraging years of experience within our project management and consultant teams to offer helpful suggestions and guidance.

At Daegis, our sole focus is eDiscovery, so it's only natural that we would come up with a better way to do it.
